Flegg Duke of Edinburgh Expedition 2026

Seventeen students took part in their Duke of Edinburgh Bronze Expedition on Friday 8th and Saturday 9th May. Over the course of the weekend, students demonstrated resilience, teamwork, and determination as they navigated their way through the expedition routes and completed a range of outdoor challenges.

This year's expedition was especially memorable, as it was the first time the academy introduced young leaders to support the event. Four students, who had previously completed and passed their own Bronze Duke of Edinburgh Award, returned to help guide and encourage the new participants. Their experience and enthusiasm made a huge difference throughout the expedition and inspired the younger students to keep going, even during the more challenging moments.

The weather certainly tested everyone's resilience. During the day, students enjoyed beautiful sunshine and very warm temperatures, making for some stunning views and enjoyable walking conditions. However, as night fell, temperatures dropped dramatically, bringing cold conditions and a thick mist across the campsite. Despite this, students showed excellent perseverance, setting up tents, preparing meals, and supporting one another throughout the evening.

Across the expedition, there was plenty of laughter, teamwork, and memorable moments. Although there may have been one or two wrong turns along the way, every group successfully completed the expedition within the required time, which was a fantastic achievement for all involved.

As part of their expedition challenge, each group also completed a creative team activity inspired by nature. Students chose to create and perform dances that represented the natural world around them, bringing plenty of energy, creativity, and humour to the weekend.

Overall, the expedition was a huge success and an experience that students will remember for years to come. Staff were incredibly proud of the determination, independence, and positive attitude shown by every participant, and the Academy looks forward to building on this success in future Duke of Edinburgh expeditions.
